The Res Life Incentive Program (RLIP) is designed to attract and keep residents on campus past their freshmen year. It is open to all residents that are paying to live in the on-campus undergrad dorms and previously lived on campus. Other details/eligibility requirements are that this program is on a trial basis for the 2019-2020 academic year beginning with the pay period beginning August 11, 2019; participants may enroll in the program at any time up to August 19, 2019 (the beginning of classes), or leave the program at any time after 8/11/19; the last pay period in this program will be the one that ends Saturday, April 18, 2020; participants must enroll in the program online at Res Life Incentive Program or in person at the Iba Hall housing office; and participants must be employed by either the Wellness or University Dining Services departments.

It is also required that participants meet the eligibility requirements to be a resident as outlined in housing contract found in the handbook at Residential Life Housing Handbook. Housing and Residential Life (HRL), as sponsors of RLIP, reserves the right to make any adjustments needed at any time in order to correct prior errors.

RLIP is based on hours worked, but it is not a payroll program. HRL will augment your pay up to a maximum of $12.50 per hour for up to a maximum of 20 hours per week. This program is not subject to any overtime or holiday hours worked. The adjustment will be paid on the following payroll period.

It was noted at the top that RLIP is designed to attract and keep residents on campus past their freshmen year. We mean it. Returners provide valuable guidance, set good examples, and are generally good mentors for freshmen. We appreciate that you have been accepting of the many rules in place to encourage good behavior and we appreciate that you made it past your first year.

We also appreciate very, very much that you are gainfully employed as that exhibits a positive character. We love it, keep it up, and thank you.
